

The Good Friday Walk for Justice

The 29th Annual Good Friday Walk for Justice is a project of the 8th Day Center for Justice. The Walk for Justice stems from the Christian tradition of the Stations of the Cross – Jesus’ walk to his execution. Beginning at the plaza the northeast corner of Michigan and Congress Streets, people of all faiths and good will process through downtown Chicago stopping at five “stations” or large plazas along the way, e.g., Congress Plaza, Federal Plaza, Daley Plaza, Thompson Center Plaza.

At each of the stops participative prayers or reflections prepared by various justice-seeking coalitions/groups are said. These contemporary prayers remind participants of the many communities of people and Earth itself suffering at the hands of the “powers and principalities” in our day – those, as in times past, who are condemned, burdened, stripped of dignity, tortured and killed by unjust public policies.

to REMEMBER to SPEAK to ACT to IMAGINE

The theme for this year's Good Friday Walk is - Who Will Carry the Word? To Remember – To Speak – To Act – To Imagine. It speaks of 8th Day Center's belief that each of us must bear the responsibility not to forget those who suffer at the hands of dominating and abusive power. This day is called "good" because we believe if we work together it can lead us to remember, to speak, to act, to imagine the many possibilities for transforming unjust systems.

Join us – Friday, April 10th from Noon – 3pm at the northeast corner plaza at Michigan and Congress.
